A marriage of much interest to local residents was that of Miss Hazel Hendrix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hendrix, to D. J. Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sears, of Glenwood, in a lovely and simple home wedding. There were no attendants and the bride, attired in a going-away suit of pastel blue wool gabardine, offered the living room with the groom to the strains of wedding music with Mrs. Barnes at the piano. The bride wore an orchid and Mrs. Sears, mother of the groom, wore white carnations. Mrs. Hendrix, mother of the bride, wore pink carnations. Other members of the family wore single carnations. Throughout the house were decorations of potted plants and gladioli. After the ceremony the entire group were ushered to the dining room, where a most beautiful three-course wedding cake topped with white frosting and decorated with miniature bride and groom was cut by the bride. Punch and cookies were served.

THIS PAPER does not undertake to set itself forward as the greatest piece of newspaper ingenuity in the whole world. Truth is, we are sure we are not. There are some very much better newspapers, we'll admit, and then there are others who cheerfully claim they are—while claim is sometimes more or less open to question, we admit.

The Times does feel a pardonable pride in the evidence of appreciation which is carried almost every issue in the volume of classified advertising on another page. This advertising is not charity, nor is it procured by high-pressure methods of gentle persuasion. Readers who think of advertising, think of the Times, and come voluntarily to use our columns. That feature grows and steadily attracts the esteem in which the paper is held by the masses.

Heretofore we have mentioned specific instances of results from these advertisements, the result of which may have been accepted as a mere coincidence. There was recently a man who came to advertise for a lost truck tire, and when he told us what he wanted, another man about to walk out of our office told the fellow where the tire was—and we lost the price of that advertisement. That was not imaginary, nor coincidence; the man who lost the tire knew where and how to find it.

But the record for effectiveness (and we recognize this may strain a weak imagination) happened during the past week. On the evening before publication day there was quite a considerable coming and going.

What with people who wanted to do business with us. In the group came a young farmer from the Brooklet community with a couple of "want" advertisements. He paid us and walked out. Later another patron called us to the front, and as we glanced down there lay a $10-bill on the floor, all bright and cheerful. When he dropped that bill, he was the slight worry for the moment, but we sort of chided ourselves for carelessness and congratulated ourselves that we had found it before it had blown away.

There was no thought except that in our hurry we had dropped the currency. So it went into the spot from which all our money eventually flows back into circulation. During the night which followed we dreamed of youth and childhood and happiness in the days of long gone, and awaited the morning with a smile and the assurance that all was well—we had found the $10-bill before the trash-man got it.

About mid-morning a day later there came to our office the same young man from Brooklet who had given us the two "want" advertisements—already referred to. He was sort of solemn as he told us that he had experienced bad luck, had dropped a $10-bill somewhere on the streets and was ready to offer a reward. "I was in your office, you recall; did you by any chance find a bill after I went out?"

Of all the prompt responses to advertisements, we have in mind none which we can compare. And that man was happy—and so were we. We had lost the additional proposed "want" advertisement, but we had given prompt response to the intended appeal to find for its return. The young man smiled happily as he declared, "This is the first money I ever found after it had been lost!"

And we are not boasting about our special generosity, but we are proud of our reputation for results!

Throughout Georgia 97 per cent of the poultry flocks are small farm or back yard flocks, according to poultrymen. Approximately 70 per cent of all birds in the nation are in small flocks.

Vegetables can be grown in the garden for much less than what it would cost to buy, and the quality and health value is much higher. A one-half-acre garden is recommended for the average family.

A fine picture will hold its own and grow increasingly lovely no matter how often the furnishings in a room are changed. So, home experts suggest that when buying pictures get those that will give lasting satisfaction.

Brown Swiss Cattle Are Popular Breed

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Brown Swiss cattle, one of the world's oldest breeds, are found today in every climatic zone of the world, according to Dr. W. Engeler, of Switzerland's Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association. He spoke here recently in a transcribed broadcast prepared for the General Electric Farm Forum by the Swiss Broadcasting Corporation.

For more than 500 years Brown Swiss cattle have been exported from Switzerland, and for the past eighty years this breed has been imported by the United States, he said in the WGY program. In the last fifteen years the breed has found its way into thirty-five countries, and in some cases the breed, which is hardy and disease resistant, has been used effectively in cross-breeding, he added.

PREDICTS PARITY NOT BE CHANGED

Wingate Declares Proposed Change Would Be Hurtful To Farming Conditions

H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, this week predicted that Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's recommendation for a change in the present parity formula will not win congressional approval.

His statement, made in Havana, Cuba, where he is serving as an agricultural advisor to a United Nations Conference on Trade and Employment, was issued through GFBF headquarters in Macon.

Anderson has recommended that the formula be changed to a 10-year moving average. "That, in my opinion," Mr. Wingate said, "would be very detrimental, especially to the South."

After stressing the dangers faced by Georgia farmers in reference to a long-time farm program, the GFBF executive, who is also a member of the board of directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said:

"Some state Farm Bureau organizations agreed with the secretary of agriculture on the parity formula. But the majority of farmers in particular, Mr. Wingate declared, would be satisfied to accept less than 90 percent of parity because they are more highly mechanized than in the case on the Georgia farm."

"I am delighted to report that the Southern delegates to our national convention in Chicago recently were successful," he said, "in maintaining in our annual resolutions the recommendation for 90 per cent guarantee, which was a great victory for our section."

"My prediction that the 10-year moving average would not become law this year," he asserted, "is based on the assumption that a bill of this type cannot pass the Congress without the help of such agricultural leaders as Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, and Senator Russell."

"There is said Congressman Clifford Hope, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee; Congressman Stephen Pace, of Georgia, and Congressman Harold Cooper, of North Carolina. In my opinion these are the most influential members of the House and Senate committees. All of these gentlemen have expressed their opposition to the bill."

With everything taken into consideration, the GFBF executive maintained that the outlook for 1948 and 1949 is "very bright, and with the shortage of the food and fiber situation it is the duty of our farmers to put forth special efforts to increase production to the highest point possible."

Mr. Wingate urged that Georgia farmers not forget that "we are in the midst of a real struggle for a long-time farm program, even though we should be successful in extending for another year our present parity set-up."

"It merely gives us one more year to work out what will be fair to all sections of the nation," he concluded, "and the one thing that will do most to help us win the fight is membership, and for this reason 1948 should be a banner year for the growth of the Farm Bureau."

In his statement, the GFBF leader predicted with a high degree of optimism that membership in the organization this year would reach a minimum of 80,000 farm families.

Nobody's Business

By GEE McGEER

WALLACE MIGHT GET SOME SOUTHERN SUPPORT

hon. henry wallis
of the republic muggy-zen
dear air:

mr. slim chance jr. has asked this copy submitted to rite or foam you and offer his services as your campaign manager for president of the u. s. a. in this community, for 488 per cent, for expenses paid to him by you, he can be induced to think a right smart of russia and joe stalin and for 253 additional, he can be changed to believe in non-segregation of races, colors and creeds anathor.

mr. chance will make you a good representative, we feel sure. he has not proved to worth anything much in any other line, but he has a fine political eye and knows how to handle the public. he will not doubt be able to get a great many votes for you in our midst.

mr. chance says that a down payment by you for his services, he will change from a dimmerat to a progressive overnight, as soon as you check arrives. he will see that all classes and colors will be willing to work hard lane for you. all he needs is enough money to keep the job and himself alive.

you can rite mr. chance at once in care of the flat rock pool room and he will receive same promptly. at present he is making the beer department in the said pool room. don't put this off; the republicans are also after him and the longest pole will get the dumplings. he says you hope his dad on the farm when you issued the plow-up orders and you hand us gin tickets. wishing you both luck, i remain—yours trullie,

bolsum moore, rfd,
corry spondent.

ITS ALL OVER EXCEPT THE BILLS

nearly everything is back to normal in flat rock after the yule holidays ansoforth. most of the resolutions that were made have been broke, miss jennie veeve smith, who fought long skirts so hard, enduring 1947, has come out with a skirt that reaches below her cuffs and her protest is over.

mr. bert skinner has turned his farm over to the mortgage holder. he cant fight the weather, the land (mortgage) and the mortgagee. he weevil, bermuda grass and skace labor. he will in the end the skinner back on flat rock's outskirts and work at odd jobs till he can get on the welfare rolls. he made 1 bale of cotton and owed 2 bales for rent last year.

the cannon ball train which passed thru flat rock will curtail its service from now on. several trains have been annuled here lately, and now it looks like only one will come up and go back every other day now. the big trucks and trailers haul all the freight now, and the passenger business has gone to buses and private cars and walking sticks.

COMMUNISM IS A POLITICAL DISEASE
mr. slim chance sr. says that the only way to have peace in the world is to let russia have her way in europe and africa; in other words, let the "bear" to put all four feet in the feed trough.

the world cannot stand communism very long, so says mr. chance. the folks would either revolt against it everywhere or we would be a case of dog eat dog and the world would drift back to barbarism.

there's no use in trying to make an agreement with russia. if we had an agreement it would amount to nothing. russia changes her mind along with the weather. a promise from stalin's bunch is the bunk.

mr. art square, the flat rock economist, says if the farmers want communism, why just let 'em have communism, but it will pay us to keep communism out of this country. mr. square says he will stay to keep it to the changing gear for life. communism will in the end rot itself to death. dr. heubert green says if he wanted to practice communism at home he would go to the county sheriff and have him put a ball and chain on him and force him to send him to the changing gear for life. communism is russia doesn't make a guy wear chains, but the boss wears a shot-gun, rifle and a horse-whip.

IT MIGHT BE LATER THAN WE THINK
Your part of the national debt is only all you are worth. Some high-type statisticians say that if all of the property in the entire United States, Alaska and Hawaii were to be sold at today's value, and the proceeds therefrom applied to the national debt, we would still owe $53 billions.

So much for Uncle Sam's obligations. Now, folks, you city burghers has a mortgage on your property (your lands and otherwise) equal to 10 percent of its value. Your county perhaps has a mortgage debt on your real and personal stuff equal to 12 percent of your actual worth, and then your state perhaps has a mortgage debt (mortgages) up to 10 percent of what you think you are worth.

Heard a college graduate say the other day that over 65 percent of all the money on deposit in all of the banks (savings banks included) is being used by the government.

value of your life insurance is based on what federal bonds, notes and debentures are worth, so we must all work together to keep them high.

at present, we believe the best way to hurry us toward bankruptcy would be to fly over Europe and broadcast the said bills like we sow oats and wheat. We would then go busted in six months rather than in two years. We'd hate to have to run our personal affairs like our government affairs are being run.

TIME MARCHES ON
flat rock has enjoyed some fine hog-killing weather and hog owners have taken advantage of same. art, who has killed a hog, has tipped the scales at 105 pounds and the said bills like we sow oats and wheat. We would then go busted in six months rather than in two years. We'd hate to have to run our personal affairs like our government affairs are being run.
